

Biotech Investment Analyst Internship (100%)

Nextech Invest is a Zurich based, and globally active investment advisor and management company, focused on biotechnology and oncology.

Currently we are looking for a young person with a business or scientific education, who is interested to learn about the investment business (private equity/venture capital). You will actively contribute to:

- Sourcing, evaluation and due diligence of investment opportunities in the oncology space
- Deal structuring and closing of financing rounds of biotech companies
- Managing the deal flow information system
- Support our team in fundraising, investment activities and fund management

Specific knowledge in oncology is a benefit as well as an entrepreneurial mind-set and a pro-active work attitude. Excellent communication skills, as well as proficiency in English are important. This position is an internship for 6-12 months, which may serve as a testing ground for a career in the financial world or pharmaceutical industry.
